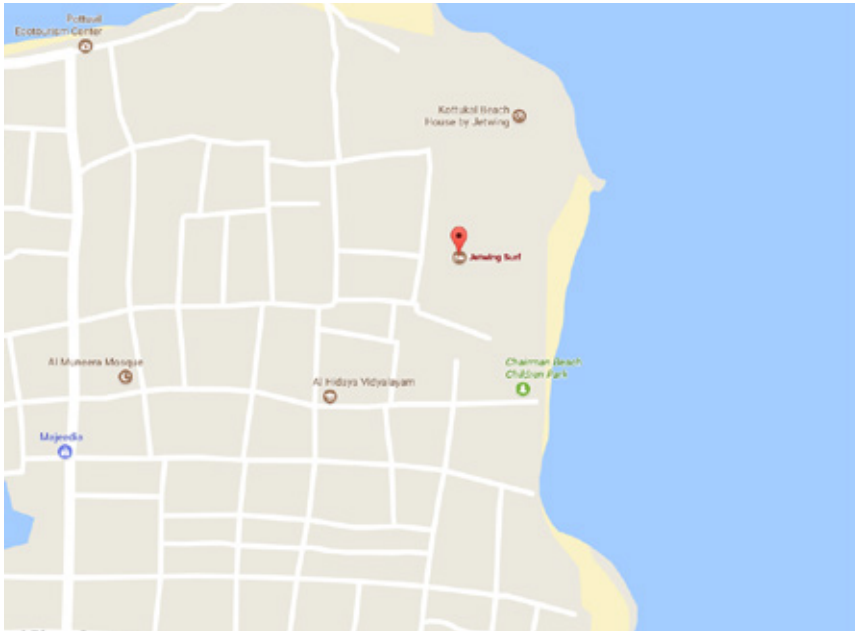
1. Introduction

Located in Pottuvil – an unspoilt stretch of beach in Sri Lanka's East coast, Jetwing Surf utilizes a unique style of architecture that sets a new benchmark in eco-tourism. The structures are built using wood, woven coconut palm leaves, and dried "illuk" grass – all of which are naturally found in Sri Lanka. The design of this unique 20 cabana resort is inspired by sea shells and as such the layout of the property and individual cabanas are formed to the shape of a sea shell. Pottuvil Point is the closest surfing destination, just 2 minutes away from the resort, and a great surfing base especially for beginners. While Arugam Bay – one of the world's finest surfing destinations is only 10 minutes away from Jetwing Surf, making it the ideal resort for surfers.

2. Location

It is situated in the Southeast of the island, 348km from the Bandaranaike International Airport and 313km from Colombo. The property is perfectly placed on the outskirts of Pottuvil, a favourite area for surfers.



3. Rooms

The 20 cabanas are designed with intricate rope and wood work, thatched roofs, with woven coconut palm leaves and dried paddy reeds – all environmentally friendly materials and can be naturally found in Sri Lanka. The interiors however are complete with every comfort including luxurious plush beds, spacious sofas, tea and coffee service and an outdoor deck with cozy summer beds and a large canopy umbrella.
